Message from the Chairman

Welcome to the first edition of our Veterans Council newsletter, THE PATRIOT READER. The plan is to publish our newsletter quarterly. The purpose of this publication is to keep our Council members informed of Veteran's events in St. Johns County and to provide a media source for you to share happenings in your organization.

The Veterans Council has had a very exciting and busy period in the past several months with many of our members engaged in various local activities.

On Sept 24th, our annual Veteran's Stand Down was again held at the Elks Lodge and was highly successful. Many Veterans were fed, provided a large selection of clothing, furnished a hot shower and haircut. Our local Veteran's Clinic personnel were on hand to give flu shots as well as register Veterans in the system if required.

On Nov. 6, your Veterans Council in partnership with Florida Veterans Programs & Projects, Inc (FVPPPI) presented the documentary film, "Prisoners of War- Stolen Freedom". The film featured 4 POWs from WW II, Korea, and Vietnam. It was an outstanding event by any standard and will long be remembered as one of the premier events honoring our deserving Veterans.

Nov. 10 and Nov. 11 were both dedicated to honoring our Veterans in St. Johns County. The 3rd annual Veterans Day Sunset Celebration at Veterans Park in St. Johns was a huge success with local schools providing patriotic music and BGEN Joseph Balskus our keynote speaker. Lots of great music and free food was available to the nearly 300 hundred who attended. The next day at Francis Field in St. Augustine, our community turned out to honor our WW II veterans along with all veterans who attended. This year's event was probably one of the best ever with re-enactors from the Men of Menendez and the 1740 Spanish Garrison Ancient City Fife and Drum Corps. An added never to be forgotten highlight was the story of our local hero, Mario Patruno riding a horse across the parade field as his story was told by our emcee, Col. Howard McGillin.

We were again privileged to have BGEN Joseph Balskus as our keynote speaker. General Balskus remarks brought home the message that all Veterans can relate to as they left home to go and serve their country.

On Dec. 21, Allied Veterans of America will again be sponsoring a shopping trip at our local Wal Mart store for underprivileged kids. We need Veteran volunteers to help provide adult supervision and assist the children as they shop for Christmas. If you or someone from your family can assist, please be on hand at 1:30 PM at WalMart.

I encourage all Veterans Council member organizations to submit articles or information you would like to see communicated and shared to our newsletter editor, Mr. Michael Rothfeld. It's a great way for us to share information about our respective organizations.

Bill Dudley, Chairman
Veterans Council of St. Johns Co.

To Arms! Four & One Half Centuries of Military History in St. Augustine.

From its very beginnings, St. Augustine has had a military presence. The town has been shaped by wars, battles, and military campaigns for centuries.

From the soldiers of Menendez and the Fort Mose militia to the Revolutionary, Seminole and Civil Wars, and finally to the modern-day National Guard, 450 years of military history is covered in 100 minutes. Soldier re-enactors recreate historic moments through vignettes.

This FREE Program is hosted by St. Augustine 450th Military Commemoration Committee (St. Johns County Veterans Council). It will be held at the Flagler College Auditorium.

Jacksonville National Cemetery, Phase 1B Completion Ceremony, Nov. 12, 2011

Medical Service Corps Director and Commander, Navy Medicine Support Command Rear Adm. Eleanor Valentin and NAS Jacksonville Capt. Jeffrey Maclay joined nearly 100 invited guests at the Jacksonville National Cemetery Veterans Day Ceremony and Phase One Completion Celebration Nov. 12.

Valentin said the opportunity to participate in the ceremony served to reaffirm the strong ties the significant military population boasts with the United States' largest geographic population.

"The city of Jacksonville and surrounding communities have always had a wonderful relationship," she said. "Seeing the amount of infrastructure improvements designed to honor the Sailors, Soldiers, Airmen, Marines and Coast Guardsmen who served their country further demonstrates the strong connection the Jacksonville community shares with its military population - those who are currently serving, and those who have served."

The 526-acre National Cemetery is designed to serve veterans' needs for the next century, and with the completion of the facility's Phase 1B plan - which included a new entrance with a wall, new roadways named in honor of local military installations, a memorial walkway, a flag assembly area and additional committal shelters and interment areas - the Jacksonville National Cemetery will serve the approximately 189,000 veterans in the northeastern Florida/southeastern Georgia areas.

U.S. Rep. Ander Crenshaw, a Jacksonville native, along with U.S. Rep. Corrine Brown also attended the event. Crenshaw, a member of the Defense Appropriations Subcommittee, was instrumental in securing funding for the Jacksonville National Cemetery as a prior member of the Military Construction and Veterans Affairs Appropriations Subcommittee.

Capt. Maclay explained that the NAS Jacksonville Honor Support Team performs its duty at Jacksonville National Cemetery, as well as other cemeteries in northeast Florida and southeast Georgia. "Each team member is trained as a flag bearer, rifleman and flag folder." What they do really matters to mourners at burial ceremonies," said Maclay."

Valentin oversees operations at NMSC to provide a single point of accountability for education, training and public health resources for Sailors and Marines.

Veterans Legislation Update

By Ledyard King
Tallahassee Democrat
Washington Bureau
November 17, 2011

WASHINGTON — Thousands of veterans struggling to find work across the nation will have a better chance to land a job under a measure the House unanimously passed Wednesday. The bill, which the Senate passed earlier, now heads to President Barack Obama for signing. "No veteran who fought for our country should have to fight for a job when they come home," Obama said in a statement after the vote.

The measure will provide tax breaks to companies that hire veterans. It includes a provision authored by Rep. Jeff Miller, R-Chumuckla, that temporarily extends unemployed veterans' eligibility for additional training and education under the GI bill. It also requires those leaving the military to take classes to help them make the transition to civilian life, aligns state licensing requirements for technical jobs with the skills service members learned in the military, and monitors the performance of retraining programs in placing veterans in appropriate jobs. "Today's victory is only the first step," Miller, chairman of the House Veterans' Affairs Committee, said after the vote. He promised to "champion this issue until we reach the final step, when our veterans are out of the unemployment lines and on the path to success."

In a Congress divided by partisan rancor, helping veterans is a cause supported by both parties. The House overwhelmingly passed Miller's bill last month and sent it to the Senate, which added the tax breaks and sent the revised version back to the House, where it passed 422-0 Wednesday.

Veterans have had an especially tough time finding work after leaving the military. The latest government data shows unemployment among "Gulf War-era II" veterans at 11.7 percent, compared to 9.1 percent for the entire country.

Miller, whose Panhandle district is home to more than 100,000 veterans, said the Veterans' Affairs Committee has used those same funding sources in the past to expand other veterans benefits.

Veterans groups say they support the bill despite how it would be financed, because jobs are so important to their members. As many as 1 million veterans are estimated to be unemployed.

Compliance Made Simple

APPROVED
501(c)(3)

Exempt Organizations have special benefits, but also must meet specific requirements to retain these benefits and not be taxed.

After earning their status as a Charity or a Veterans' Organization (known as §501(c) organizations) donations are deductible from federal taxable income; this includes dues of $75 or less paid to Veterans' organizations where the Veterans' organization provides only token benefits).

However, your organization has some additional filing responsibilities to retain these benefits. The following appear in an order applicable to more exempt organizations first. Those less-likely to be applicable are lower in this compilation.

IRS Return of Organization Exempt from Income Tax

Annually, between January 1 and May 15, file a form from the 990 family with the Internal Revenue Service. Annual gross receipts include not only donations but also gross revenues from events. are normally $50,000 or less, Form 990-N may be filed on-line, otherwise Form 990 (or 990 EZ).

Gross Receipts	File Form
$50,000 or less	990-N online
$200,000 or less, with total assets <$500,000	990-EZ
All others	990

Florida Solicitation of Contributions

Annually, on or before the anniversary of your organization's last filing, any organization soliciting donations from the public (i.e., not solely from your members) must renew its' Florida Solicitation of Contributions Registration by completing Consumer Affairs Form 10100 (<http://www.800helpfla.com/socbus.html>). To find your anniversary date, enter your organization's name or license number at <https://csapp.800helpfla.com/cspublicapp/giftgiversquery/giftgiversquery.aspx> .

Florida Corporate Annual Report

Annually, between January 1 and April 30, file an annual report with the Florida Secretary of State (www.sunbiz.org) by corporations, including not-for-profits.

Fictitious Name Registration

Every five years, by December 31, renew a fictitious name registration (required of unincorporated entities and those other entities that use fictitious names) with the Florida Secretary of State (www.sunbiz.org).

Sales Tax on Unrelated Business Income

If your organization collects and remits sales taxes on unrelated business income, or has payroll, there are other, mostly monthly, federal and Florida filing obligations for these trust funds; significant penalties (both on the organization and persons in control) may be imposed for failure to file or to remit these trust funds promptly.

If your organization hosts an event where alcoholic beverages will be sold, the organization must apply for a ODP (one, two or three-day permit), collect and remit sales taxes. Such events can be obtained for a continuous period not to exceed three days, and not more than three events per calendar year, by filing Form ABT-6003 ($25) fee. This form requires Florida Dept. of Revenue concurrence. https://www.myfloridalicense.com/CheckListDetail.asp?SID=&xactCode=1030&clientCode=4002&XACT\_DEFN\_ID=6770 . Further, purchase of a commercial liability policy is highly recommended. If you do not apply sufficiently in advance of the event, personal travel to two (possibly three) agencies in Duval County may be required.

Reporting of Remittances & Reimbursements

During the calendar year, you must track interest payments, miscellaneous amounts paid to unincorporated entities (including individuals), and any amounts paid to attorneys (whether incorporated or not) and certain other payees. After year-end, total the amounts paid to each entity. If those amounts exceed IRS thresholds (most often $600, but zero for attorneys), you must prepare a Form 1099 (there are many different forms in this family) for each recipient and provide appropriate copies by January 31. You must prepare both Forms 1099 and 1096 for filing with the IRS. For more information, please go to <http://www.irs.gov/efile/article/0,,id=98114,00.html>

Employment Taxes

If you have payroll, make deposits of withholding trust fund employment taxes quarterly or more frequently, and file federal employment tax forms on IRS Forms 941 (there is no Florida income tax on wages); and unemployment taxes on IRS Form 940 and Florida Form UCT-6. Filings dates are April 30, July 31, October 31 and January 31 for the quarters ended one month previously. Deposits must be made by the 15th of those months, or more frequently if significant. After year-end, you must prepare and file IRS Forms W-2 to the employee (by January 31) and to the Social Security Administration (by February 28). For more information, please review IRS Publication 15 (also known as Circular E), Employer's Tax Guide, which may be found at <http://www.irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/p15.pdf> and Florida Unemployment Taxes at http://dor.myflorida.com/dor/taxes/unemploy\_comp\_law.html.

When you hire an employee, you must report certain information about that employee within 20 days. Use DHS Form I-9 to collect this information; go to <https://newhire.state.fl.us/fl-newhire/> to report the required information.

If you provide pension or certain other employee benefits you (or your benefit plan provider) must file Form 5500 annually with the U.S. Department of Labor, electronically. For more information, and filing instructions, please go to <http://www.efast.dol.gov/welcome.html>.

What if I Haven't Filed?

Unlike Monopoly's "Go to Jail! Do Not Collect $200" this can be quite serious.

In the real world, you can reinstate the exempt organization's §501(c) status by filing a current, accurate Form 990 and paying a fee of as little as $100.

Filing a current, accurate Form 10100 reinstates the Solicitation of Contributions authorization, but the organization will incur a penalty of at least $25 per month.

Reinstating a lapsed corporation that is an exempt entity requires only filing the correct information—the Florida Secretary of State does not penalize charities.

There are significant financial penalties for failure to file employment, information or sales tax forms or to remit taxes timely. These can apply both the exempt organization and to the officers.

If you still have questions after reviewing the above and the references, you may wish to call John Mountcastle, a Veteran, who may be able to clarify your situation and provide guidance in becoming compliant.

His email is john\_mountcastle@yahoo.com This information is offered as a guide only.
